

Minutes for School Council Meeting

Wednesday, 24th April

We welcomed Alfie and Jack who stood in for Jacob and George and so joined our meeting today.

We talked about the Plastic-Free Day which is planned nationally for the 8th May to celebrate David Attenborough's 93rd birthday. We discussed what we would like to do here in school. We have already done quite a bit in school to reduce our single-use plastics to help protect our environment so we decided that it would be really nice for us all to work together and produce an art-work. We thought that we could all use oil pastels to draw our own sea creature on a sheet of A5 paper. We could then laminate them double sided so that they could be hung on the playground fence and could be seen from inside and outside school! Mrs McManus will print some pictures of sea creatures for the pupils to use.

We also thought that Acorn Class might like to put together a plastics assembly for the summer term to show to Oak Class and the parents.

The next School Council Meeting will be held next half term.
